Description: Collage Workshop – learn collaging skills by producing a shared work.

I think collage allows us to be liberated and free-form in our approach to creativity. It brings its own parameters which limit us and force us to think outside the box and often creates the setting for a happy accident to reveal itself ... collage is always where I start in order to get ideas.

So for this workshop I would ask participants to bring along 8-10 pieces of collaging materials that you like but that you are prepared to put into a communal share. I would suggest doing what I do and getting bits and bobs from your recycling box or from things you have, but don't go buying anything! I will supply glue and brushes and a small supply of paint and plenty of boards to work on.
